1. The National Congress of the Belgian Communist Party, which was scheduled to be held during the 1950 Christmas holidays, has been postponed to Easter 1951.
2. Between now and Easter, Edgar Lalmand, who is responsible for the postponement, hopes to be able to liquidate his more serious enemies and to surround himself at the Congress with dependable groups who will be able to defeat his adversaries.
3. Lalmand also believes that the Belgian Communist Party will soon go underground and that the stimulation of working together for the common cause will eliminate the differences which separate the two factions.
